

A vibrant photograph capturing a unique urban landscape. In the foreground, several colorful houseboats are moored along a wooden dock, their facades painted in shades of white, blue, green, and yellow. The water is a deep, clear blue. Behind the houseboats, a dense cluster of modern residential buildings rises against a clear, pale blue sky. These buildings are primarily high-rise apartment complexes with a mix of light-colored facades and dark glass windows. One building stands out with its bright orange and red accents. The overall scene is a blend of traditional and contemporary architecture, set against a backdrop of a clear, sunny day.

Houseboats on Mission Creek
Photography ©2021 Keith Ratner